For the 2016 election cycle the Ohio Republican Party follows the following procedures to gather all required information from our contributors.

The information is requested when the initial solicitation is made. The response device used in federal solicitations requests street address, state and zip along with occupation and employer of every donor. As the responses are sent back to the ORP the information is entered into the tracking software database.

If there is information missing the staff makes a second request from the donor trying to gather the missing information.

As the information is obtained the staff files the new information with the Federal Elections Commission.
